Ψ Correspondent bank fee charge for Foreign Currency outward Remittance:
 There are two ways to remit USD to other domestic bank accounts from HSBC:

- Domestic USD payment to be cleared through HBUS
 The transaction can be made in any of the HSBC branches or by internet banking. It will take at least 2 to 3 working days for settlement, and there will be processing fee charged by foreign correspondent bank. The processing fee would vary and it's typically around USD $15 to USD $50, subject to the requirement by correspondent banks. Please be reminded that there may be more than 1 correspondent bank in each transaction.
- Domestic USD payment to be cleared through FISC (The beneficiary bank should be the participants of FISC settlement Platform, and has RMA (Relationship Management Application) with HSBC bank)
 The transaction can be made in any of the HSBC branches or by phone banking (not applied to internet banking). The remittance can be settled on the same day or the next working day if it's been made before 14:30 on the day, and there's no processing fee charged by correspondent bank.
 Please be reminded that the Bank has to review the transaction contents. If any information or transaction details need to be supplemented, or if any special condition occurred from system checking, the remittance would not be settled in time, and the Bank will only execute the transaction again 2 working days after any necessary remediation.
